BUILD THE MOUNTAIN

The desire to communicate an idea artistically has always been something that has driven me. Complimented by my background in athletics, I have worked within the sports industry for the past 8 years adding my personal style to graphic communication.

Each composition is created with the mission to evoke an emotional connection between brand and consumer - to tell a story. And before we can begin shouting these stories from the mountain tops, I work dilligently at making sure that we have built a mountain to shout from. Whether it is developing the message or crafting new ways to shout, each creation is formed to continuously raise the peak to new heights.

I am excited to share these conversation pieces with you. I am confident that my style, vision and communication can be tailored to any industry looking to tell a story of their own.

Shout it from the top.

PRESSBOX BRANDING

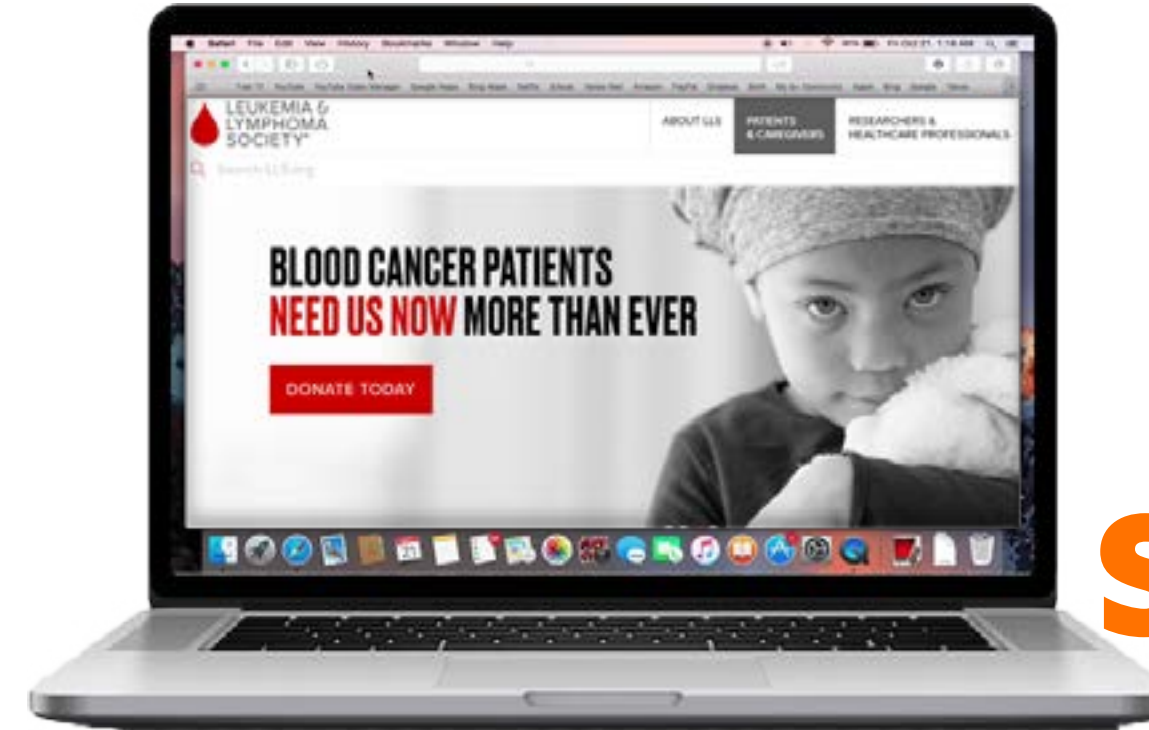

From concept to reality, Pressbox Branding started as a vision to make an impact on bringing industry level digital marketing to high school athletics.

Before branding to target clients, Pressbox Branding was in need of developing it's own image. From the start, the brand's development was established with creativity, intentionality and focus in mind.

The aesthetics of Pressbox Branding needed to be bright in color to quickly and uniquely capture the attention of potential clients. The nine circle logo was designed to mimic the iconic stadium lights that transcend across a variety of athletic programs. The website was tailored to talk in terms that coaches find relateable.

The goal: to position Pressbox Branding as the premiere digital marketing service offering consistent, quality and engaging social media presence for high school athletics .

THE STORY

BRING CONSISTENCY TO YOUR BRAND IMAGE

BRIDGELAND

This account was one of the first in the early stages of Pressbox's expansion. Bridgeland was a new school in the Greater Houston area with a story to tell and a relatively unknown name in Texas high school football rankings.

The inspiration for design elements came from the new, clean, and modern style the school was establishing. With a dominant color that needed to be highlighted, the goal was to offer loud and direct images that told the story of Bridgeland Football's successes throughout the course of the season.

CEDAR RIDGE

Located in the suburb of Round Rock just outside of Austin, Cedar Ridge was an established football program that was looking to keep up with current marketing and social media trends. With a nearby rival school having increased their social presence, Cedar Ridge was in need to compete and stay relevant within their space.

I was able to enter into work with this account in a time where brand marks were inconsistent, messages were unclear and little identity was established.

The question that kept coming to mind: "Who is Cedar Ridge?"

Through consistent styles and logo usage, a social media reform, and a rejuvenated interest within follower interactions, we began to formulate the answer.

ALL OF JOY

Also early in it's development stages, All of Joy Wedding and Events Planning was in need of branding presence to establish themselves in a busy market share.

The concept for the logo design was a play on the brand name with the main graphic being clean and sharp, yet still maintaining elegance. The colors chosen evoked a sense of peace which was important for the client to pass along to their consumers.

At the heart of this project was love and joy for the beauty that life offers, which was represented in each element of the suite.
